MT. MARION

Mt. Marion, Sept. 28.—Bert Jennings of Brooklyn is visiting at the Briggs home.

Miss Marie Beach of Woodhaven, L. I., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bogert for the past few weeks, motored to her home Sunday with Miss Otalie Kroeber of Mt. Vernon, who was also visiting the Bogerts this past week-end.

Victor Haslam and Miss Sylvia Place returned this week from a visit to Mr. Haslam's brother, Fred Haslam, of Richmond Hill, Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Donath of Rockaway Beach, Long Island, and Miss Irene C. Schwager of Jackson Heights, Long Island, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. A. Werner.

Miss Harriet Carle received the loving congratulations of her friends and relatives on Wednesday, September 23, as it was her 84th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Young of Brooklyn spent the past week-end at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Williams and Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and son of the Bronx spent the week-end in their cottage at Munier's.

Irvine Snyder has accepted a position with the General Electric at Bridgeport, Conn., and left for that place Monday morning.

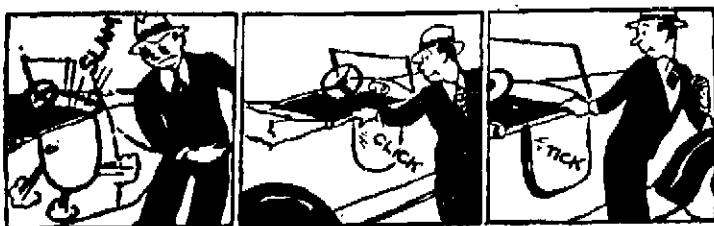

Wesley Smith left Sunday to attend Cornell College and will be greatly missed by the young folks of this community and of the young people's club of which he was president.

Railway dining cars serve approximately twenty-five million meals a year—equivalent to serving every inhabitant of a city of nearly 25,000 population with three meals a day for an entire year.

MILTON

Milton, Sept. 29.—Miss Rita Abruzzese left Thursday for Ithaca where she has entered Cornell for a four-year home economics course. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Abruzzese accompanied their daughter to Ithaca.

Miss Eleanor Young and Miss Hazel Baxter were in Ithaca last week attending a three-day Youth Training School session in Grooming, under the auspices of State College. Another group of young people are receiving instructions in Relationship in Youth. Ulster county will have two of these groups during the winter, one in Milton and one in Clintondale, which will be sponsored by Miss Ruth Goldsmith, teacher of home economics in Highland school and the young people who are now taking these extension courses will assist Miss Goldsmith. These groups are for young people between the 4-H Club age and Home Bureau age.

Mrs. Adelaide H. Wilke of Milton, tax collector for the Central School District, began her collection of school taxes last week. The money is coming in steadily. The tax roll was made ready by assessors earlier than usual this year and it was possible for the school tax list to be ready and collection to begin earlier also.

The monthly meeting of the Society of Friends was held at the Friends Church, Milton, on Saturday. Cornwall quarterly meeting members were in attendance from Milton, Clintondale, Plattekill and Tilton. The Rev. B. Russell Branson of Clintondale gave a report of the dinner given in New York city for Dr. Arthur Eddington of Great Britain, famous scientist and a member of the Society of Friends who spoke at the Harvard Tercentenary celebration.

George Strickland of Pompton Lakes has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Phoebe Strickland, who has been very ill.

John L. Palmer of New York is spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Dennis O'Brien.

Mrs. Winfield Bailey and son motored to Plymouth, N. H., last week, where Thomas has entered Holderness Preparatory School for the year.

Miss Florence Kent of Poughkeepsie and Miss Millie Kent of Peekskill have been spending some time in Milton.

Mrs. Edward Young, Sr., attended a meeting of the milk committee in Albany last Thursday.

A meeting of the North River Presbytery will be held in Pine Plains Tuesday, October 6. Delegates from the Milton Presbyterian Church will attend the meeting.

Sergeant Dolan Leaves Kingston

Local U. S. Army Recruiting Sergeant Transferred to Poughkeepsie—Sergeant Klein Will Relieve Him

According to special orders received at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in the county courthouse here today, Sergeant Joseph F. Dolan who has been in charge of the station since its opening here last spring, has been ordered to Poughkeepsie where he will take charge of the station at that place. The order is effective September 30.

Sergeant Arthur Klein of the 16th Infantry has been assigned to the Kingston station and will report and take charge on Wednesday, relieving Sergeant Dolan. Since coming to Kingston Sergeant Dolan has made many friends and has been very popular with the public officials in and about the courthouse where the recruiting station has been located. During his stay here he has enlisted a number of local young men in the various branches of service.

"At this time, I should like to express my sincere appreciation to the newspapers, the sheriff and his staff and to all officials and others who have so ably cooperated with this office, since I have been here," said Sergeant Dolan. "And I am confident that the same cooperation will be shown to my successor. There will be no change in policy and the selection of desirable applicants will continue uninterrupted. There are still several very desirable assignments available in Panama, Hawaii and the United States."

The local recruiting station is under the supervision of Col. Harris of the Albany Recruiting Service.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Dave Rosenbloom, who has been staying at Kaplan's, returned to New York Sunday.

The school children had a holiday Friday as the teachers attended a conference in Kingston.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. A. Kavanah and Mrs. Seward of Yonkers and Mr. and Mrs. George Strosky of Astoria motored here and spent the day with Miss Cynthia Van Wagenen at Locust Hurst Cottage. Mrs. Kavanah and Mrs. Seward are remaining for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Smith are spending a few days at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Samson visited over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherman.

The New York state Sunday School convention of this district will meet morning, afternoon and evening at St. James M. E. Church, Kingston, on Friday, October 2. A most helpful program has been planned with noted speakers. All interested in youth work are urged to attend.

The Ladies' Aid will meet on Thursday, October 1, with Mrs. Alvah Bell. Members are urged to be present.

On Wednesday evening, September 30, pictures of Lake Mohonk and Bermuda will be shown in the Reformed Church. These have been taken by R. Hayes Hamilton of Mohonk. A silver offering will be taken for the choir fund.

Lou Sherman spent the week-end at his bungalow here.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Davenport and John Davenport are enjoying a vacation trip to Canada.

Most beautiful flowers were again

donated for the Sunday service at the Reformed Church, reminding us of Dr. Malbie Babcock's hymn, "This is My Father's World."

SPEAKING OF PRESIDENTS

President Coolidge in Washington and President Calles in Mexico City opened telephone service between this country and Mexico nine years ago today.

Circuits had been set up between the two capitals by way of St. Louis and Dallas. Just a few hours before the official opening, a tornado near St. Louis caused a failure of the wires. An alternate circuit was set up by way of Chicago and Omaha. To be on the safe side, another was set up by way of Atlanta and New Orleans. The program went off on schedule and the speakers never knew the difference.

Today scarcely any section of the country is dependent for long distance calls upon any one set of lines. If something makes it impossible to help you reach anybody, anywhere, any time by one route, the Bell System is generally able to see to it that you get there by another. New York Telephone Company.

Regional Parley For Red Cross at Governor Clinton

The regional conference for Red Cross Chapters in southeastern New York state met at the Governor Clinton Hotel and was largely attended. A fine large Red Cross banner was found floating from the balcony of the hotel and the lobby was made especially attractive by the presence of many members of the Ulster County Chapter appearing in their Red Cross uniforms. There were also some very attractive posters.

The long registration table was presided over by Mrs. C. E. Hasbrouck (in uniform) acting as treasurer and Mrs. Charles Hall, Mrs. Hillis and Mrs. Hallock.

The floral decorations were in charge of Mrs. Harmon Kelley and Mrs. R. R. Gross, the tables in the dining room being especially attractive with their dainty baskets of flowers.

The meeting was called to order by the president of the Ulster County Chapter, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, who called upon the Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., to pronounce the invocation.

In welcoming the delegates who came from many chapters, Judge Hasbrouck took note of Kingston as being a conference or convention city and stated that no organization could meet here with the warmth of welcome and cordiality that would be afforded the National Red Cross. Judge Hasbrouck, for the benefit of the guest delegates, gave a brief but very interesting history of the early days of Kingston and told of the various points of peculiar historic interest which the out-of-town guests might like to visit. Calling attention to the great disaster and emergency relief that are made possible through the Red Cross, Judge Hasbrouck spoke rather pessimistically of the more than possibility of another great war and the absolute necessity of having in readiness for such an eventuality, a ready, fully equipped and manned American Red Cross, particularly if such a war should follow along the lines of brutality which have been so terrible in the Spanish war. The conference had been called in order that the entire membership of the Red Cross of the represented chapters as well as their communities might appreciate the need of supporting the organization that stands for mercy.

Maurice R. Reddy, assistant national director of disaster service, was the first speaker of the morning and brought a message that, if shouted from the house-tops, would remedy many false impressions of the operations of the American Red Cross as a whole and in its smallest groups. Mr. Reddy was, besides being an interesting and informing speaker, possessed of a valuable sense of humor. Like Judge Hasbrouck, Mr. Reddy prefaced the most pertinent part of his talk with a very brief sketch of the founding of the Red Cross by Clara Barton, whose whole aim was to secure the coordination of all good efforts and organizations into a great, unified relief organization ready for times of such need as could be helped in no other way.

Mr. Reddy cited two forms of Red Cross activity, relief and rehabilitation, both so vitally important. He went into detail, in telling just how the Red Cross works, only a part of which telling can be presented at this time.

He made it very plain that funds were always asked for on the basis of need, no fund ever being raised to cover an entire loss, but sufficient money being asked for to begin permanent rehabilitation. Nor does the Red Cross use its own machinery of investigation, alone, to decide what the need in cases of emergency and disaster is. In addition to the work done by its own expert investigators and those loaned by other outstandingly reliable organizations, reliable people in each community are formed into committees to give the local situation and confer with the Red Cross before definite sums of money are called for in each community.

All those who support the Red Cross, should have heard Mr. Reddy tell of how the needs that would overburden and crush families and even individuals are relieved and lightened to the bearable point so that suffering and dire want cannot do their worst following the emergency and disaster. Small sums and large ones are used to restore family life and the support of such life, as the need is made apparent. It is very unfortunate that the time before going to press does not permit a fuller and more detailed report of Mr. Reddy's most illuminating address.

The next speaker was W. B. Page, Chairman of Disaster Relief of the Nyack Chapter who spoke on "Chapter-Preparedness," and he was followed by Walter Davidson, Assistant Manager of the Eastern Area who spoke on "Organizing the Man-Power of the Nation-Community for the Red Cross."

Following the luncheon there were to be additional addresses and consideration of the Red Cross Junior Membership.

MARKETS FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)

New York update receipts of fresh fruits and vegetables were rather light to moderate. Cool weather undoubtedly stimulated and improved demand for fancy lima beans, celery, cucumbers and spinach. Jobbers, however, were reluctant to pay in higher prices and consequently few important changes were noted since yesterday excepting peaches, spinach, cauliflower and fancy cocorille and yellow crookneck squash which showed a slight price advance. The quality and condition of Big Boston lettuce, romaine and snap beans were mostly ordinary to poor and resulted in lower prices. The market for potatoes, cabbage and carrots was dull.

Beans, snap bushel baskets, Bountiful, best $1.25-$1.75, poorer $1.00-$1.50. Red Cranberry $1.25-$1.62 1/2, poorer 75c-$1. Lima beans, baskets $1-$1.25.

MT. MARION

Mt. Marion, Sept. 28.—Bert Jennings of Brooklyn is visiting at the Briggs home.

Miss Marie Beach of Woodhaven, L. I., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Abram Bogert for the past few weeks, motored to her home Sunday with Miss Otalie Kroeber of Mt. Vernon, who was also visiting the Bogerts this past week-end.

Victor Haslam and Miss Sylvia Plasse returned this week from a visit to Mr. Haslam's brother, Fred Haslam, of Richmond Hill, Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Donath of Rockaway Beach, Long Island, and Miss Irene C. Schwager of Jackson Heights, Long Island, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. A. Werner.

Miss Harriet Carle received the loving congratulations of her friends and relatives on Wednesday, September 23, as it was her 84th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Young of Brooklyn spent the past week-end at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. George Williams and Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and son of the Bronx spent the week-end in their cottage at Munter's.

Irring Snyder has accepted a position with the General Electric at Bridgeport, Conn. and left for that place Monday morning.

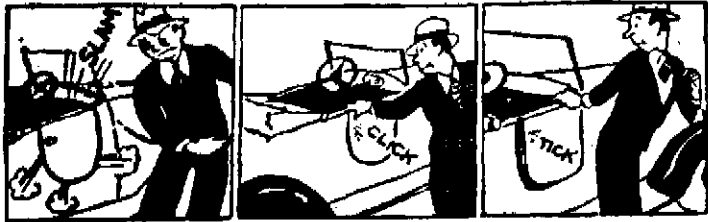

Wesley Smith left Sunday to attend Cornell College and will be greatly missed by the young folks of this community and of the young people's club of which he was president.

Railway dining cars serve approximately twenty-five million meals a year—equivalent to serving every inhabitant of a city of nearly 25,000 population with three meals a day for an entire year.

MILTON

Milton, Sept. 29.—Miss Rita Abbruzzese left Thursday for Ithaca where she has entered Cornell for a four-year home economics course.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Abbruzzese accompanied their daughter to Ithaca. Miss Eleanor Young and Miss Hazel Baxter were in Ithaca last week attending a three-day Youth Training School session in Grooming, under the auspices of State College.

Another group of young people are receiving instructions in Relationship in Youth. Ulster county will have two of these groups during the winter, one in Milton and one in Clintondale, which will be sponsored by Miss Ruth Goldsmith, teacher of home economics in Highland school and the young people who are now taking these extension courses will assist Miss Goldsmith. These groups are for young people between the 4-H Club age and Home Bureau age.

Mrs. Adelaide H. Wilke of Milton, tax collector for the Central School District, began her collection of school taxes last week. The money is coming in steadily. The tax roll was made ready by assessors earlier than usual this year and it was possible for the school tax list to be ready and collection to begin earlier also.

The monthly meeting of the Society of Friends was held at the Friends Church, Milton, on Saturday. Cornwell quarterly meeting members were in attendance from Milton, Clintondale, Plattekill and Tilton. The Rev. B. Russell Branson of Clinton-dale gave a report of the dinner given in New York city for Dr. Arthur Eddington of Great Britain, famous scientist and a member of the Society of Friends who spoke at the Harvard Tercentenary celebration.

George Strickland of Pompton Lakes has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Phoebe Strickland, who has been very ill.

John L. Palmer of New York is spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Dennis O'Brien.

Mrs. Winfield Bailey and son motored to Plymouth, N. H., last week where Thomas has entered Holderness Preparatory School for the year.

Miss Florence Kent of Poughkeepsie and Miss Millie Kent of Peekskill have been spending some time in Milton.

Mrs. Edward Young, Sr., attended a meeting of the milk committee in Albany last Thursday.

A meeting of the North River Presbytery will be held in Pine Plains Tuesday, October 6. Delegates from the Milton Presbyterian Church will attend the meeting.

Sergeant Dolan Leaves Kingston

Local U. S. Army Recruiting Sergeant Transferred to Poughkeepsie—Sergeant Klein Will Relieve Him

According to special orders received at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in the county courthouse here today, Sergeant Joseph F. Dolan who has been in charge of the station since its opening here last spring, has been ordered to Poughkeepsie where he will take charge of the station at that place. The order is effective September 30.

Sergeant Arthur Klein of the 16th Infantry has been assigned to the Kingston station and will report and take charge on Wednesday, relieving Sergeant Dolan. Since coming to Kingston Sergeant Dolan has made many friends and has been very popular with the public officials in and about the courthouse where the recruiting station has been located. During his stay here he has enlisted a number of local young men in the various branches of service.

"At this time, I should like to express my sincere appreciation to the newspapers, the sheriff and his staff and to all officials and others who have so ably cooperated with this office, since I have been here," said Sergeant Dolan. "And I am confident that the same cooperation will be shown to my successor. There will be no change in policy and the selection of desirable applicants will continue uninterrupted. There are still several very desirable assignments available in Panama, Hawaii and the United States."

The local recruiting station is under the supervision of Col. Harris of the Albany Recruiting Service.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Dave Rosenbloom, who has been staying at Kaplan's, returned to New York Sunday.

The school children had a holiday Friday as the teachers attended a conference in Kingston.

On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. A. Kavanah and Mrs. Seward of Yonkers and Mr. and Mrs. George Strosky of Astoria motored here and spent the day with Miss Cynthia Van Wagenen at Locust Hurst Cottage.

Mrs. Kavanah and Mrs. Seward are remaining for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Smith are spending a few days at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Samson visited over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherman.

The New York state Sunday School convention of this district will meet morning, afternoon and evening at St. James M. E. Church, Kingston, on Friday, October 2. A most helpful program has been planned with noted speakers. All interested in youth work are urged to attend.

The Ladies' Aid will meet on Thursday, October 1, with Mrs. Alvah Bell. Members are urged to be present.

On Wednesday evening, September 30, pictures of Lake Mohonk and Bermuda will be shown in the Reformed Church. These have been taken by R. Hayes Hamilton of Mohonk. A silver offering will be taken for the choir fund.

Lou Sherman spent the week-end at his bungalow here.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Davenport and John Davenport are enjoying a vacation trip to Canada.

Most beautiful flowers were again

donated for the Sunday service at the Reformed Church, reminding us of Dr. Maltbie Babcock's hymn, "This Is My Father's World."

SPEAKING OF PRESIDENTS

President Coolidge in Washington and President Calles in Mexico City opened telephone service between this country and Mexico nine years ago today.

Circuits had been set up between the two capitals by way of St. Louis and Dallas. Just a few hours before the official opening, a tornado near St. Louis caused a failure of the wires. An alternate circuit was set up by way of Chicago and Omaha. To be on the safe side, another was set up by way of Atlanta and New Orleans. The program went off on schedule and the speakers never knew the difference.

Today scarcely any section of the country is dependent for long distance calls upon any one set of lines. If something makes it impossible to help you reach anybody, anywhere, any time by one route, the Bell System is generally able to see to it that you get there by another. New York Telephone Company.

MAN OF DEEDS NOT WORDS

It is refreshing to have as the Republican candidate for President a man who is not romping over the country arraigning his opponent or indulging in vituperative attacks.

Governor Landon is making a deep impression on voters because of his sane attitude towards the problems of the day, his frank willingness to accord Roosevelt credit where credit is due, and his determination to permit "Jim" Farley, if he chooses, to run a campaign of "dirty politics," as Farley said this battle would be.

Landon's fine personality is reflected in the type of campaigner he is proving himself to be—clear in thought, wholesome in expression, fair and manly in argument. "With malice toward none, with charity for all," he makes steady progress on the road to the White House.

The high qualities he has displayed as a leader in business brought him the Republican nomination for Governor of Kansas in 1932. That was the year in which the big Democratic sweep occurred. The people of Kansas knew Landon and elected him. He was the only Republican governor elected that year in the whole great Mississippi Valley and in 1934 he was the only Republican governor re-elected in the United States.

FRENCH DEVALUATION.

France's final surrender to devaluation of the franc, roughly agreeing with previous British and American devaluation, seems to clear the international business air and pave the way for more rapid business recovery. France was being penalized by her own rigid adherence to her gold standard, which meant drastic deflation for her people and ruin for debtors.

The basic trouble leading to such cooperation among the big three money powers seems to be simply this, that there is no longer enough gold in the world to carry the world's business on a modern scale. If the old money standards are adhered to, so the pounds, francs, dollars, and so on, are "cut" to make more units of the basic money, and thus more currency and credit. This is a frank inflationary measure, having about the same effect on general business and the payment of obligations that a corresponding increase in the actual amount of gold would have.

Such action can only be safe and lasting when the big economic powers agree on a common denominator of value. As soon as this delicate adjustment is worked out, the gold standard apparently is to be restored. With a definite international standard of value again, there should soon be more financial stability generally, and a more rapid revival of international trade.

SILLIEST FEUD

In the Kentucky hills families used to fight feuds with guns. In modern New Jersey, if one may believe what is seen in the papers, the weapons are newspapers. At least, the family in one side of a duplex house accused the family in the other side of "running mousetraps by hand just to the end." The mousetrap brand-ers kept six butter tubs in the back yard and let rain water collect in them. When a health officer was summoned he found many wrigglers and verified the fact of the mosquito borders. The authorities finally emptied the butter tubs and forbade further accumulation of rain water for any purpose.

This is something new in neighborhood quarrels, but has its parallel in senseless modern warfare which is equally hard on all belligerents, victors and vanquished. Those mosquitoes must have bitten impartially, regardless of which side of the front porch or the back yard their victims occupied. And they left the original causes of the local war completely untouched.

CHILDREN'S ACCIDENTS

More than twice as many children 15 years old or less are killed in accidents annually as die from measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria. Automobile accidents are one-fifth of the total.

The three diseases mentioned used to take many children's lives every year, but their peril has been lessened by careful preventive work. Auto and other accidents might well be regarded as symptoms of a disease. They might be prevented, too, by fighting them before they happen. Training drivers and requiring proof of their responsibility as well as mechanical skill before granting them licenses would help. So, too, would education of children, not in timidity, but in commonsense carefulness.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)
 VALUE OF SALT

One of the disturbing conditions that occurs after operation is exhaustion, a partial stoppage or paralysis of the intestinal muscles, some congestion of the kidneys and a lowered blood pressure. This is now believed to be a form of poisoning and if the symptoms increase there is great mental and physical weakness, the tongue is dry, the blood pressure goes still lower, the pulse rate increases, hiccup appears and almost no urine is passed.

These symptoms may gradually disappear or a still more serious condition develop such as unconsciousness, labored breathing, uncontrollable vomiting, marked rises in temperature with sometimes dangerous heart symptoms.

You can readily see how disheartening these symptoms of poisoning are to the surgeon, to the family doctor and the family.

It is very gratifying therefore to learn that a very simple remedy has been discovered that will counteract the above distressing and dangerous symptoms which sometimes occur after operation. The regular Paris correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association writes of a paper read by Dr. Max Levy, Paris, before the Academy of Medicine, recording some remarkable results obtained in this poisoning occurring after operation.

The treatment consisted of the injection of a solution of common table salt into the veins of these patients.

Thus when any of the above symptoms occur (even in mild form) after an operation, a chemical analysis of the blood and urine should be made immediately. All the results can be obtained within two hours. The marked decrease or disappearance of the salt in the urine gives the best idea of the amount of chloride or salt that has been withdrawn from the blood and tissues to be lodged in the tissues where the operation has taken place.

The treatment consists of injecting very slowly into a vein 20 c. c. (a little more than half an ounce) of a 4 per cent solution of sodium chloride (table salt) and continuing to inject this solution from time to time during the first and following days according to the amount of the decrease of salt in the urine.

When symptoms are very severe larger doses should be given each time.

The results of this method of increasing the amount of salt in the blood have been most gratifying especially following abdominal operations in general surgery.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony only last night rescued Miss Little, the film star, and Ruth Fraser from the hands of the desperate gang of kidnappers. Although he is not sure Terence thinks he may be suspected of the murder of Elsie Knott, secretaries when he met her in his home and Louison suggests that Terence accompany him to the Little house. Terence agrees. But he dislikes Louison's amig confidence that no suspicion can attach to him.

CHAPTER 14

BETRAYAL

WHEN they had driven a short distance in the direction of the Little's house Lawson tapped on the glass in front of him and signalled the driver to stop.

"You must excuse me for a moment," he said, "I want some cigarettes."

The taxi stopped, and Lawson got out and entered a small tobacco shop. Mahony noticed outside the shop a sign which said: Public Telephone. He frowned. Lawson, he knew, smoked Balkan Sobranies. It was unlikely that he would be able to get them at that small, shabby shop. In that case he had probably entered the shop in order to use the telephone.

But what for? What the devil was Lawson up to now, he wondered. Was he planning to have the taxi intercepted before it reached the Little's house? He slipped his hand into his pocket; his fingers closed on the butt of his automatic. The feel of it comforted him. If Lawson was planning to put over a fast one he was ready for it. He felt fine.

But nothing happened to interfere with the taxi. It drew up safely outside the Little's house and Lawson paid the driver and rang the front door-bell. A trim maid admitted them and showed them into a drawing room where Elsie, a short, fair man, and a tall, dark-haired man of thirty-three or four were sitting. The dark man was Inspector Kennedy.

"Good morning, Elsie," said Lawson. "I've brought Mr. Mahony along to see you. Well, Kennedy, how are you?"

"Where did you meet Mr. Lawson?" asked Elsie.

Her lovely face was pale and her eyes showed signs of recent weeping. As she asked Mahony that simple question there was an air of suppressed but intense excitement about her that was not easy to account for. It affected the others in the room; both Lawson and Kennedy were listening in attitudes of expectant attention.

"I met him at the end of Dulverton Street, near his house," Mahony answered.

Now both Kennedy and Lawson were looking at Elsie. And Elsie was looking at Mahony. On her face was an expression of the most utter horror and dislike. He might have been some sort of big, white, poisonous slug, the way she looked at him. She spoke slowly and clearly:

"I recognize this man's voice. He was the man who was with me in the study last night," she said.

HER words struck Mahony with all the force of an unexpected blow between the eyes. He had thought it in the last degree improbable that Elsie would remember his voice. And he objected strongly to her thinking that he had killed her uncle. The horror and contempt in her eyes stung him. The gleam of satisfaction in Lawson's eyes infuriated him. For a second he was moved to indignant protest.

"It wasn't I who murdered your uncle," he said hoily.

At that Inspector Kennedy leaned forward slightly with the eager air of a tiger about to grip its prey.

"So you know Mr. Little has been murdered," he said keenly. "Will you explain how you know that? The news has not been published in any of the newspapers yet."

He paused.

"I have to warn you that I am a police officer, and that anything you say may be used as evidence," he added. "You are not obliged to answer my questions now."

It was obvious to Mahony that he had made a bad slip. The knowledge jerked him into a realization that he had to keep his wits about him.

"How do you think I know he's been murdered?" he asked bluntly.

"Lawson told me on the way here," "What's that?" exclaimed Lawson.

For a moment he showed his white teeth in a smile. He would have smiled in the same way at an opponent who had made a good shot at tennis, particularly if the shot was not quite good enough to win the point.

"I didn't mention the murder to you on the way here," he said.

Mahony stared at him with an expression of utter amazement on his face. He appeared to think that Lawson had suddenly gone quite mad.

"You didn't mention it?" he asked.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, Sept. 29.—Last announcement is being made of the Dairymen's League clambake to be held in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, Thursday, October 1. The committee in charge would appreciate help to prepare the bake. Clambakes will be picked at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dusemberre.

Friday evening the Epworth League devotional and business meeting will be held at 8:30 o'clock. An attractive program for the fall and winter months has been arranged.

Rally Day will be observed on Sunday, October 18, at the M. E. Church.

Community night was observed at the Plattekill Grange Hall, Saturday evening.

Miss Helen Palmer was a guest of her sister, Miss Marian Palmer, in Modena on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rooney of claimed. "Why, good heavens, man, you hardly talked of anything else. Don't you remember asking me not to stay too long, because Miss Little was very upset?"

He really seemed to believe what he said. For a moment he paused. Then he scowled and went on suspiciously:

"What's the idea? Why are you trying to pretend that you didn't mention the murder?"

He seemed to suspect Lawson of dark deeds and sinister intentions. Lawson retaliated by merely looking superior. He shrugged his shoulders with a nonchalant air.

"The man who came running out of the house when the constable and I arrived, shortly after the murder, bit me and the constable very hard with his fist," he observed dispassionately.

He made a slight gesture towards Mahony's right hand.

"How did you get that graze on your knuckles?" he asked.

Mahony glanced down at his knuckles. He had grazed them knocking out one of Mulgrave's teeth.

"I fell over and scraped my hand on the pavement," he answered.

ALL his indignation had gone; he felt quite cool and collected now. In a way, he was rather enjoying himself. He recognized that his position was very awkward, but it was not necessarily disastrous.

Elsie claimed to have recognized him by his voice as the man who had killed her uncle, but that recognition alone, especially considering the dazed state she had been in after her uncle's murder, was not sufficient to convict him in a court of law without a good deal of corroborative evidence. It was up to him to see that no such evidence was forthcoming.

"Can you give me an account of your movements after ten o'clock last night?" asked Inspector Kennedy.

Mahony shrugged his shoulders. "Very roughly," he answered. "I've been away for about four years, you know, and last night I simply wandered alone about London seeing the sights. I strolled along Oxford Street, the Strand, and back by the Houses of Parliament, Ebury Street, Sloane Street and Hyde Park. I stayed in the Park for some time listening to one of the stump speakers. I don't know what time I got home, but it must have been pretty late because everybody was asleep."

"I suppose you didn't meet anybody you knew during your wanderings?" asked the inspector.

"No. But it's not likely that I should. I hardly know anybody in London," explained Mahony.

There was a pause. The inspector's next question came very suddenly and curtly.

"I understand that you have recently returned from a four years' stay in China. Did you know anybody out there engaged in the dope traffic—exporting drugs?"

Mahony hesitated for a moment. Then he decided to be quite truthful.

"Yes," he replied. "I met a man out there who talked to me about that sort of thing. He was a Russian named Vladimir Kosoff. I believe I broke his jaw."

"You seem to be a somewhat violent person," observed Inspector Kennedy. "I take it that the thought of engaging in that trade yourself has never occurred to you?"

"No," answered Mahony.

"Do you disapprove of it?" asked the inspector.

"I think it's a filthy traffic," said Mahony.

But he wondered, a little anxiously, what the inspector was getting at. "A most creditable sentiment," said the inspector blandly. "And when you returned to England you went at once to stay with your friend Mr. Ross?"

"Yes," agreed Mahony.

"He is a particular friend of yours. I take it?" persisted the inspector.

"Yes," agreed Mahony again.

"We were at school together."

"Has it ever been suggested to you that Mr. Ross is a dope addict?" asked the inspector.

Mahony had been waiting for something like that. He was ready for it.

"Billy Ross a dope addict? Don't be silly," he said contemptuously.

The inspector had not said, "Ross is a dope addict," in the manner of one stating a fact; he had said, "Has it been suggested to you that Ross is a dope addict?" in the manner of one seeking for information or admissions. Someone, quite evidently, had put this dope idea into the inspector's mind, and he was merely engaged on exploring its possibilities.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Helen Wetmann of Ossining is spending a week's vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wendt.

Lacey Sampson, a New York man who has a summer home at Glenford, was a caller here Sunday. Mr. Sampson, who has a number of friends in Shokan, is an extensive traveler, one of his recent trips being to France.

James A. Hartvig closed his country home in the west end Sunday and took the three Hartvig children back to New York. His wife remained in the city over the weekend. The Hartvigs this year varied their summer activities by a trip of several weeks through the south. Mr. Hartvig as usual made some fine catches of trout in the upper Esopus creek early in the season, before the streams became lowered by the dry spell. He also found a skip of bees and before returning home removed a portion of the honey from his improvised hive. The family are well liked here and they in turn have become much attached to our folks and the beautiful reservoir country.

Frank Van Etten of Port Ewen has completed and painted the exterior of his new bungalow on the north side of Route 28 here. The house is situated on a slight eminence near the never-falling Every spring, the lot being a part of Mr. Van Etten's old homestead property, the former Isaac Eve place.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Etten are ex-residents of Shokan and they have many friends in this section.

Miss Margaret Windrum last week enjoyed a motor trip of three days to Saratoga and Lake George.

Mrs. J. Sullivan and daughter, Patty, returned to their home in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn Saturday after a vacation sojourn of several weeks here. Miss Patty attended the Shokan school during September.

Charles Jansen, former tax collector of Olive, was numbered among the prominent South Olive residents calling in the village center Sunday.

Miss Joan Bostock of Bryn Athyn, Pa., is spending some time at the home of Mrs. Denis T. Lynch on the upper mountain road.

Mrs. Jennie Lapsard of Richmond Hill, L. I., is the guest for a week of her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Giaccone, of the north boulevard.

The first fall social sponsored by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church, held in the church basement Friday evening, was attended by 27 persons. Games of bridge, pinocle and dominoes were in progress during the evening. The refreshments consisted of sandwiches, cake, pickles, coffee and tea.

A marriage of September 29, 1937, was that of Alfred Satterley to Elsie Elmyre, by the Rev. Vernon D. Mattice, pastor of the Shokan M. E. Church. The young couple were residents of The Corner, a Shandaken community now known as Mt. Tremper.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazzie Wager have had their attractive state road residence repainted.

Aartjan Van Wageningen, one of Kingston's leading philatelists, was a visitor at the Van Wageningen country place Sunday.

This season's crop of acorns is one of the largest ever known here, the ground beneath the larger oaks being literally covered with the nuts. Farmers used to prize the acorn as a hog fastener but this practice in general has been relegated to the category of obsolete customs. The squirrels apparently find plenty of food in the woods this year as they are leaving the cornfields strictly alone, much to the relief of our farmers.

School taxes for District No. 3 of Olive will be payable to Collector Homer Markle at the one per cent fee until October 22.

Contractor Justin North has completed the foundation work for Chester Lyons' new dwelling on the state road. Ralph Buley and Alfred Rose were included among the men working on the cellar and drains.

Peter Tompkins of Atlanta, Ga., who has been stopping at the Lynch homestead on the mountain, has entered Harvard University. The young man is a son of Lawrence Tompkins, nationally known sculptor.

J. McCafferty of New York spent the week-end at his bungalow on the mountain road. The McCafferty summer home, of rustic design, was erected last on land acquired from Frank Myers of Shokan and Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard F. Ruckert of the village center left Shokan Sunday on a motor trip to New York.

Callers here Sunday included James Hughes, veteran Ashokan reservoir employee, of West Hurley. Mr. Hughes, a native of Broadhead, was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Harold Elliot, and children, former residents of Shokan.

Joseph Rilly has returned to the city after spending several weeks at his Shokan bungalow. Mr. Rilly, one of the few summer visitors who began coming here before reservoir construction days, has been employed for many years in the mail rooms of large metropolitan dailies, including the Brooklyn Eagle and the New York American. "Joe," by virtue of his long association with this section, is thoroughly conversant with village life; he is a year-round reader of The Freeman and follows the paper's chronicle of local events with a keen interest.

Twelve new lakes, dammed in the Hartman section of the Palisades Interstate Park of New York and New Jersey, during the past four years, have now been given permanent names. In place of contractor, crown, or shoulder of land are formally among the 36 lakes and ponds now in the Hudson Highlands and the northern Ramapo Mountains in Rockland and Orange counties is the New York Division of the Interstate Park. Eight of the names are Indian, from Lenape or Delaware words, in forms prevalent among the Miami or Narragansett tribes, which occupied Rockland county. Four preserve local names given by early white settlers, so named in that they were retained.

A Washington Day Book.

By PRESTON GROVES

WASHINGTON—Because so much has been written and said about the effects on the southern negro of efforts in this campaign to obtain his ballot, we asked a senator from a southern state to estimate the result.

The efforts took definite form at the two national conventions. The Republicans at Cleveland adopted a plank advocating "equal opportunity for our colored citizens" and attacked New Deal "regimentation" of the negro. Democrats at Philadelphia heard addresses by negro delegates. A prayer by a negro minister caused South Carolina's Senator Smith to bolt the convention. Both parties have campaign machinery for dealing with the negro vote.

Has No Effect

THE senator giving his opinion is considered by his colleagues as calm and wise. He knows the south well. For obvious reasons his identity is not given. The following are his views:

Upon the mass of southern negroes the efforts to make use of the negro vote has had no effect. The political effort has been directed principally at negro populations in northern and border states and any influence in the south is incidental.

By and large the southern negro (said the senator) is dependent for support and guidance upon white people. The whites commonly provide him with a home (in rural sections, especially), with most of his employment, with counsel in his family affairs, with protection from aggressive neighbors, with a degree of medical care, often with supplies when the negro's ill-providence finds him without.

(Statistical evidence that may support this is contained in the World Almanac for 1936 which quotes census and other figures to show that in South Carolina—as an instance—11,597 farms were owned by negroes in 1930, 4,053 partly owned, and 61,362 operated by negro tenant farmers—largely dependent upon whites. The expanding cotton mill industry, the almanac says, is drawing white help from the hills.)

Promote On Fieker

SOUTHERN negroes who occasionally achieve "city education" rarely return to the home beside (the senator said), often as much because they are unwise as because they are dissatisfied.

The millions dependent upon cotton and tobacco for employment are unlikely to be stirred by politics for many years to come. (The senator was confident of that.)

He looked with foreboding upon the newly tested cotton picker, and predicted ultimately it would prove successful, thereby throwing millions of negroes out of work. He believed the south would be forced into other crops than cotton to provide work for the negro. He hadn't much idea what new crops would serve.

Muscle of the Greeks

Music was considered by the Greeks as an important adjunct of their culture. It also served as a luxurious pastime of the nobility. The instruments of the Greeks were the lyra, kithara, phorminx, magadis and trigonon, all stringed instruments and much alike. Of the wind instruments, the flute assumed a position of importance, while accounts from the year 290 B. C. state that Timotheus and Krates were the victors upon the trumpet at the Olympic games.

A True Friend

A friend! What is a friend? My friend is he who laughs with me, who weeps with me; one who encourages, praises, rebukes; who comes to me at the wedding feast or stands with me beside the coffin; who listens to my hopes, my fears, my aims, my despair; who rejoices in my successes; who does not despise me in my misadventures.

Memphis, Tenn.—Three days ago a young couple beaten by poverty and hardship gave up their three small daughters to a welfare agency "so the children won't starve."

Yesterday the parents reappeared with this plea:

"Give them back to us. We'll manage somehow."

"I knew you'd be here," a representative of the Tennessee Children's Home Society told them.

LANDON, SNOWDEN ON THE FENCE

The cameraman caught Gov. Alf M. Landon on the fence, but not a political one, as the Republican presidential nominee discussed politics with former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, at the latter's farm near Oregon, Ill., after a campaign swing through Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. (Associated Press Photo)

TO RAISE HER FAMOUS VOICE FOR GOV. LANDON

Geraldine Farrar, idol of the public in Grand Opera, until she retired to her quiet home in Ridgefield, Conn., has entered the national campaign to raise her famous voice again in singing the praises of Governor Landon and Colonel Knox. Literally, Miss Farrar will not sing in the campaign, but will grace the ever-growing list of famous personages who are volunteering to speak for the Republican cause. She has joined in the crusade against the New Deal as a patriotic American, an enthusiastic, dashing personality among the hosts of those who realize that the country is facing a serious crisis on November 3.

"I am not politically minded," she said, "I am humanly minded. I am deeply concerned over unemployment. There are still 11,000,000 of our people out of work. They do not want charity, or to idle under a demoralizing and ineffectual relief, but they do want a chance for a real job. America believes in work. Americans have always subscribed to the principle that one can only take out of work what one has honestly put into it. Gov. Landon believes in this fundamental principle. As President, he will restore the self-respect of the American workers with his plan to relieve unemployment by practical, common-sense, economical methods. I am glad to vote for Gov. Landon, and work for his election. The country is facing a critical test on November 3, not so much for any one candidate, as for the American people as a whole."

Defends New Deal

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—Suddenly resigning his post as chairman of the social security board, John G. Winant, former Republican governor of New Hampshire, took to the campaign warpath today to defend the New Deal social security act against Governor Alf M. Landon's criticism.

Highland, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Dora Wilklow entertained at the U. D. meeting Saturday afternoon. Miss Belle Brinkerhoff, Mrs. Charles Champlin, Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail, Mrs. J. W. Feeter, Mrs. M. E. Maynard, the Misses Frances Drayn, Laura D. Harcourt, Mrs. Abram Rhodes, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. S. D. Farnham, Mrs. Philip Wilklow, Mrs. Franklin Welker, Mrs. William Waterbury. Owing to the absence of the president, Mrs. Charles Champlin presided.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Jenkins of Bronxville spent the week-end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Corwin.

The Easy Aces Bridge Club was entertained this afternoon by Mrs. Martha C. Schantz.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilkins of Walkill were Sunday guests of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Corwin.

Highland Grange won second place among the 10 Granges who had exhibits at the county fair in Kingston last week. Highland was the blue ribbon winner at the State Fair in Syracuse.

Mrs. Jacob J. Donovan called on her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Yeager, Saturday at the hospital in Goshen where she underwent an emergency operation during the week.

Mrs. Carrie Jordan spent the week-end at the home of her son, Arthur Jordan, in Kingston.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lane entertained the latter's brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Palmatier, Vernon, Jr., and Norma of Glen Rock, N. J. They went on to Lloyd where they spent Saturday night and Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Palmatier.

Miss Catherine Wilklow, a student at Oakwood School, Poughkeepsie, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Wilklow.

Mrs. William Waterbury has returned from a visit with friends in Brooklyn and in Germantown, Pa.

Dr. and Mrs. Julian Freston and two daughters, Jessie and Eleanor, of New York drove up Saturday to the home of the doctor's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Freston. Dr. Julian Freston returned while his wife and daughters remained for the week.

An executive meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. D. S. Haynes.

A church family night will be held Thursday evening in the Presbyterian lecture room with a covered dish supper and the opening of the summer offering boxes by the trustees.

Mrs. Ann Hamlin of Philadelphia is spending this week with her cousin, Mrs. Carrie Ostrander.

Miss Eliza Raymond accompanied the Misses Dorothy Haight and Ruth Forsberg to Round Lake Saturday afternoon and returned Sunday evening.

The delegates to the Youth Conference at Ellsworth a week ago, the Misses Mildred Gruner, Shirley Hubbard, Barbara Lent, Mildred Reylea, Barbara Boyce, Richard Haynes, Richard Corwin, Robert Coutant, each gave a two-minute report of the subjects at the conference at the morning worship service in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.

Members of the Evening Reading Circle met Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 until 5 o'clock at the home of their leader, Mrs. A. W. Lent, to make up vegetable soup and tomato juice and soup for the use during the winter of the local nurse and among invalids.

The young people of the Presbyterian Church met Sunday evening at the manse and formed an organization for a Christian Endeavor Society with Robert Coutant, president; Richard Haynes, vice president; Doris Coutant, secretary; Nancy Dean, treasurer, and Barbara Lent, chairman for the programs. The group will meet each Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Miss Barbara Lent was a week-end guest of Miss Elizabeth Taber in Milton.

The Evening Reading Circle will open its meetings for the year on Monday, October 5, at the home of Mrs. Andrew W. Lent.

Theodore Coelho came up from New York Sunday and is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail.

Mr. and Mrs. George Howland were guests of Hugh Smiley at the Berkshire Inn, South Egremont, Mass., Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lent have invitations for the 25th anniversary of the Presbyterian Church at Yonkers, which Mrs. Lent's father, the late Rev. D. G. Lawson, was instrumental in building. The anniversary services open Thursday evening with a birthday dinner and continue until Sunday.

And just as the floral emblem of the Landon campaign has been chosen, along comes a medical authority to say that among the causes of hay fever must be included the sunflower. Lowell Leader.

Advice
Four simple words to you we shall tell,
"Mind your own business," then all will be well.

Cuthbert—Tomorrow night, Maudie, I intend to ask your father for his consent to our marriage.
Maudie—Do! I'll try to bring you flowers every day till you're out again. You know, I've never seen the inside of a hospital!

What most of us are seeking is some kind of system that will enable us to earn more than we deserve.

Electrician—Wire your home, madam.
Lady (indignantly)—Well, can't I stay in my own house.

A Pennsylvania Dutch girl, and a college graduate, called her brother to breakfast in this fashion: "Key, come on down and eat yourself; Mom's on the table, and Pop's half et."

Bobby—Say, Aunt Sue, what's an heirloom?
Aunt Sue—Why, it is something that is handed down from father to son.
Bobby—Well, that's a funny name to call my pants.

The most miserable people are those who intentionally make others unhappy.

Karl—He was kicked out of school for cheating.
Jane—How come?
Karl—He was caught counting his ribs in a physiology examination.

Naughty books aren't new. They have just moved to the living room table from under the mattress.

Jones—What causes all of the commotion in your neighborhood?
Smith—It's this way. We are keeping our radio going late at night so the people next door will be too sleepy to mow the lawn early so we won't feel like staying up so late to play the radio.

Homesickness may be unfortunate, but it certainly is a tribute to the home from which the homesick one comes.

Henry—What's a matta, dearies?
Dearie—That's spaghetti's too stringy.
Henry—Why don't yer try it wild yer vell off?

There were three stores in a row. On a certain day, the man on one end put up a sign: "Fire Sale." Immediately the man on the other end put up a sign: "Bankrupt Sale." The man in the middle thought a while, and then came out with a larger sign: "Main entrance."

Butcher—Well, you know, madam, ham's took a big jump since yesterday.
Woman—All right. Then just give me a pound off this ham you had here yesterday.

Don't be discouraged, you are not the only person in the world who isn't appreciated.

Stenphenson—The Pennington's are so quiet tonight. Is there anything wrong?
Jefferson—No; they're always that way. When he proposed he just held up a diamond ring and said, "Eh?" and she looked at it and said: "Uh-huh."

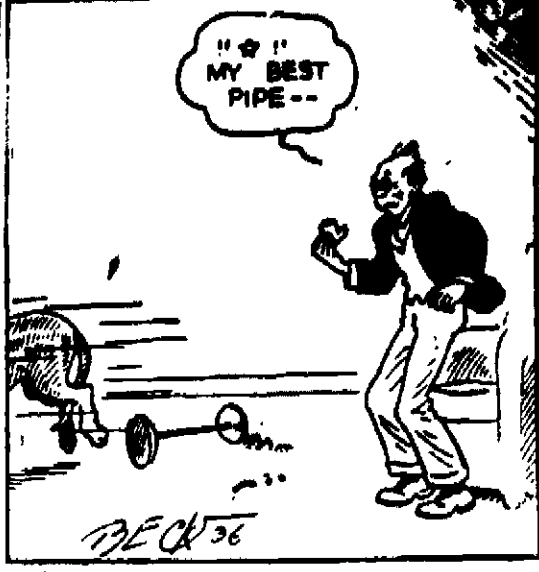

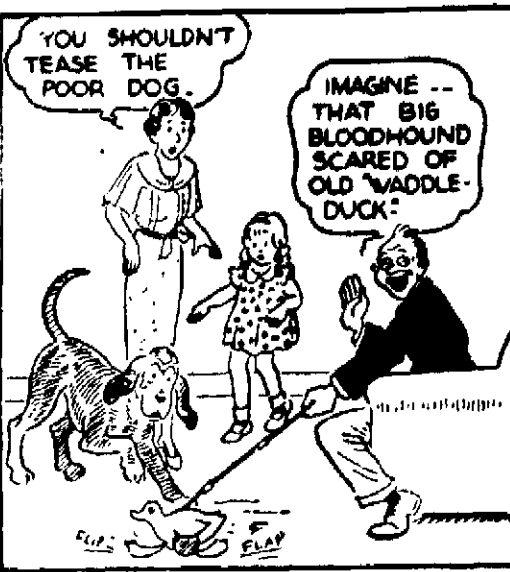

Auntie (coming for a call)—Where is your mother, Lucille, dear?
Lucille—Mother left for a five-minute visit with Mrs. Wells about two hours ago.

The little cousin you decide is going to be a budding genius quite frequently turns out to be a blooming pest.

A sausage by any other name still remains a skin game.

Another Thalberg? Filmworld Seeks The Answer In Youth

Zanuck, Stromberg, Berman on Young "Big Shot" List

This is the second of two articles on possible "successors" to the late Irving Thalberg in the field of grooming new stars.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Darryl Zanuck, just 34, is production generalissimo of the 20th Century-Fox concern, besides personal supervisor of certain films of his own. Formerly at Warner Bros., he capitalized on headlines for movie material, and in such timely films as "Little Caesar," "Public Enemy," and "Fugitive from a Chain Gang," introduced Edward G. Robinson, James Cagney, and Joan Blondell.

His films furthered the careers of Paul Muni, Barbara Stanwyck, Bette Davis, Warren William, Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell.

Subsequent Zanuck stand-outs include "Les Miserables," "Girls Don't Cry," "Prisoner of Shark Island," "Road to Glory," the Dionne quintuplet films, and the Shirley Temples. He recently signed Eddie Cantor.

One of his best talent prospects, at the moment, is Simone Simon, signed by Winfield Sheehan but first cast by Zanuck.

Stromberg Prominent

Hunt Stromberg is a leading producer at Metro—where "An American Girl" and "The Sign of the Cross" were made. "Small Town Girl" in which Janet Gaynor starred, and "The Great Ziegfeld" have increased his prestige in recent times. Two popular "teams" have come from his productions—William Powell and Myrna Loy in "The Thin Man" and Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in "Naughty Marietta" and "Rose Marie." He has done several Joan Crawford pictures, including "Letty Lynton," and his name is on the epic "Eskimo."

But youngest of the producers that Hollywood knows best by name is William Berman, a small plump fellow of 31, who has been a full-fledged producer only two years. Before that he was executive assistant in charge of production, and earlier had worked up from lesser film jobs.

Berman's pictures have included the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers hits from their first co-starring, "The Gay Divorcee." He has been in charge of Katharine Hepburn's films since "The Little Minister," and his imports from the stage include Lily Pons, Burgess Meredith, Doris Dudley and Harriet Hilliard. It was he who gave Bette Davis her best opportunity, opposite Leslie Howard in "Of Human Bondage," when her own studio had found no similar possibility for her.

Those mentioned here, of course, are but a few of the town's more prominent producers. There are others, like Jesse Lasky and Samuel Goldwyn, who lavish infinite care on select and limited productions.

But a "successor" to Thalberg, who was 37 when he died, must come, if ever, from the ranks of younger producers to be an authentic "second Thalberg."

31-YEAR-OLD DARRYL ZANUCK, youngest of the better-known producers, handles all of Katharine Hepburn's pictures. Now, like a couple of kids, they sit on the steps between shots discussing forthcoming scenes.

HUNT STROMBERG chats in the set with Janet Gaynor during the filming of "Small Town Girl," one of his recent productions which pushed him farther into the front ranks of filmdom.

DARRYL ZANUCK, another young M.G.M. smiles as Eddie Cantor signs a new contract. Zanuck, capitalized on the headlines to make several of his best pictures. He's just 31.

their regular meeting at the Elms on Monday night, and the president, LeGrand Haviland, had charge of the business session. With the Marlborough Lions Club going out of existence the Highland Lions extended an invitation to any of the ex-members here to visit their club and to join the Highland Club.

The water users here are warned to be careful of the amount of water they use as there is only a 10 days or two weeks' supply left in the reservoir. Many residents believing that the showers we have and recently had increased the water too freely. At least several days rain is needed to increase the reservoir level. The brook which feeds the reservoir is practically dry and as a result the artesian wells are taxed to their limit. Although another well is being drilled it will not be usable for some time yet.

The local stores will close at 4 o'clock beginning Monday, September 28, for the winter months. Standard time will be resumed on Sunday and this accounts for the earlier closing.

Miss Carrie Barnes had the misfortune to fall to the village on Thursday afternoon and was sent to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, to have X-rays taken to determine her injuries. She is a sister of Mrs. Minnie Sharot.

The large bungalow, formerly occupied by the Mummers family, has been rented to R. C. Brykman of the Central School faculty. The bungalow, which is on Orchard street, is owned by B. Herberich.

An exhibit of type designed by Frederick W. Goode, famous type designer of Newburgh, was arranged Wednesday afternoon in the library of Casper College, Port Jervis. Visitors and members of the New York Library Association in conference on the campus were able to see the exhibit. Type designs made by Mr. Goody and books which had been printed after his types were arranged in the general display shelves in the library's main rooms.

The regular meeting of the Pythian Sisters of Glen Temple Lodge was held in the lodge rooms on Tuesday evening. The next meeting will be October 13 in the lodge rooms.

On Sunday afternoon, October 13, in St. Mary's Hall, the local Catholic Daughters of America will hold an initiation, at which time about 25 new members will be added to the membership. At this time a convention of the district deputies of this district will hold their convention. A large delegation from surrounding cities are expected.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hannigan and son of Highland visited on Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marcks.

There is probably no mystery about the Alabama man who gained four pounds, instead of losing weight, in a period of insomnia lasting 11 days. Not being able to sleep, he spent more time eating.

EDUCATED HORSES

High School and Educated Horses presented by Miss Marion Kwonit, appearing with the V. J. W. Circus at the Municipal Auditorium, Kingston, October 5 to 10. Twice daily.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "The Case of the Velvet Claws" is adapted from the series of novels by Eric Stanley Gardner, whose attorney-detective, Perry Mason, is a famous character of fiction. In this picture, Mason is married to his wise-cracking secretary in the very first scene. They have a strange honeymoon, one that nearly drives the bride to the divorce courts, the bridegroom being kidnapped at the point of a gun and forced to take over a criminal case by a woman whose husband is mysteriously slain. Eight persons come under the suspicion of the police. Warren Williams plays the part of the cool analytical Perry Mason. Claire Dodd is the sophisticated secretary who marries her boss. Winifred Shaw is the wife of the slain man. Eddie Acuff adds to the hilarity by his antics. "The Jones Family" is the accompanying feature, showing such screen celebrities as Jed Prouty, Shirley Deane, Dixie Dunbar, Tony Martin, Spring Byington, Kenneth Howell, June Carlson, Florence Roberts and Billy Mahan in a wild ride in two decrepit automobiles over winding slippery mountain roads replete with hair raising skids.

Broadway: "The General Died at Dawn" presents Gary Cooper again in a soldier-of-fortune role, one which has added greatly to his stature as one of filmdom's outstanding stars. Playing opposite him—as a woman who uses her beauty as a lure in the high game of international intrigue—is beautiful blonde Madeleine Carroll, young English actress who is headed for a major position among the great stars. The part of General Yang is played by Akim Tamiroff, skilled depicter of sinister oriental roles. The film is based on the struggle between modern China and the predatory war-lords who are laying waste the country. On the one side is General Yang, ambitious war-lord intent upon crushing China under his iron heel. On the other is a growing people's movement. Cooper is in the ranks of this movement. Preview of "Satan Met a Lady."

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.

Broadway: "Satan Met a Lady," featuring Bette Davis and Warren Williams, and a good supporting cast, brings to the screen a lively free for all murder mystery.

Orpheum: "So Red the Rose," another of Margaret Sullivan's starring vehicles, rated as a four-star picture.

Legion and Ladies To Meet Thursday

Thursday night the Ulster County American Legion and Auxiliary will meet in the high school at Wallkill, where the ladies will elect officers for the ensuing year. Starting time of the meeting is 8:15 o'clock. A full attendance of members of both organizations is requested.

Deal

Game in hand naturally warrants the possessor to have high hopes of slam, but if little in the way of encouragement is found in partner's bidding and if opponents are over-calling, it is probable that fortunate distribution and good playing, or opponents' errors, will be necessary for the slam to succeed.

George Washington Elm to Be Marked

At a meeting of the trustees of old Kingston Academy held recently Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck was re-elected president, and Harold King was elected a trustee to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Severus B. Sharpe. The Ulster Garden Club was granted permission to place a small boulder containing a bronze tablet suitably inscribed near the George Washington elm on the grounds at Academy Park, the site of old Kingston Academy, and one of the most historic spots in the city.

Dorothy Green a Winner

In the list of homemaking awards made at the Ulster County Fair the name of one of the prize winners was inadvertently omitted. It was Dorothy Green of 26 Lucas avenue, who won first prize for a knitted dress and a second prize for a cushion.

Annual Donation Day
The day that has been set apart for Donation Day for the Home for the Aged on Washington avenue will be Thursday, October 8. There is great need of supplies in the way of food, for the coming winter, to take care of this big family, and the ladies of the Board of Managers ask that the date be kept in mind and that all who are able help out with generous donations on the appointed day.

Damask is a textile with satin, (will or taffeta figures on satin background of the same color.

Katrine Home Department
The Lake Katrine Home Department will meet at the home of Mrs. Mary Burger, Lake Katrine, Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock.

TRIM MARIAN MARTIN FROCK HELPS TO MAKE YOUR MORNINGS BRIGHT

PATTERN 9772

Collarless and short of sleeve, this little frock's the answer to every homemaker's idea of something cool and comfy for arduous household tasks. Its freedom of line fairly pleads to be kept busy, while its neatness and spic and span freshness delight in being taken unawares by an unexpected caller. This joyous style's as easy to make as it's fair to behold, and as a result, you'll want to run up several. See the high-pointing skirt panel, and the way it follows through to become a perky back sash? Buttons can be bright and decorative as you wish, and a pretty tub cotton, such as percale, or chambray, will make this your favorite. Complete Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included.

Pattern 9772 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/4 yards 36 inch fabric.

Decorating Hallways

Fashions in hallway decorations are changing as rapidly as the styles in women's clothes. The conventional table and mirror is no longer "the" thing in hall fashions. Floor and wall coverings are playing a more important part than they did in years gone by. A small sofa, flanked by a pair of tables is an attractive grouping if the hall is large enough. When there is a window, small chests may be placed on either side.

Extra Bathrooms

With the new style bath-tub, designed to fit in a corner, extra bathrooms may be created when there is only a small amount of space available. When the bath room is to be used mainly by the men of the family, a shower stall might take the place of even a small tub.

The terrarium, a glass enclosed box to grow tender plants and miniature gardens, can be constructed at home, or you can use a discarded aquarium.

Lacy Squares Form Spread or Scarf

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Dainty Filet in Easy Crochet Stitch

PATTERN 5695

In this pattern filet crochet, that favorite of the modern needle-woman, is adapted to two lovely squares—handsome used together—effective each used alone in cloth, bedspread or scarf. The lace stitch sets off the design in each square. String is the material used and you'll be delighted with the result. You can also use mercerized cotton to make the squares a smaller size. In pattern 5695 you will find instructions and charts for making the squares shown; an illustration of them and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

WHAT MAKES A MAN FALL IN LOVE?

What makes a charming, vibrant personality that attracts the opposite sex? Why is it that one boy or girl has all of the fun and popularity, while another sits at home waiting for invitations that never come?

An Amazing Simple Secret That Unlocks Hearts

Whether you are married or want to be. Whether you want to be the most popular one in your crowd, or to attract and hold the object of your affections. You must know what to do and how to act to gain your one desire. It isn't a matter of clothes—of cosmetics—of hair groom or anything else that you can buy. It's YOU and YOUR OWN personality. You must know how to develop and release the magnetic force that lies hidden within you. Many are born with this magnetism already vibrating and are attractive and popular even as very small babies. But millions of others never learn how to develop the hidden force and always remain drab personalities—neither attractive nor un-attractive.

Success in Love and Marriage. In this new booklet many secrets are now revealed. It tells you how to attract people and to become extremely popular with all. It shows how to build an almost irresistible personality that vibrates charm and makes people want to be in your company. Send for this 40-page booklet at once and learn the amazing secrets that it reveals.

Send 15c for our booklet, SUCCESS IN LOVE AND MARRIAGE, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 119th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

MODES of the MOMENT

Bubble Flowers Are New

The vogue for flowers in evening coiffures and on gowns is reflected in these blooms of a transparent plastic material which shimmer with lights like a soap bubble. One cluster is worn in the front of the softly rolled coiffure, the other at the base of the deep vee back decollete. The gown is black satin.

BINNEWATER

Blunewater, Sept. 28 — Harold Earl of Brooklyn spent the week-end with his aunt, Mrs. Millie Freer. Mrs. Oral Dietz and son, Burton, of Kingston, called on Mrs. Arthur B. Freer Friday.

Mrs. George Nichols is spending several weeks with relatives in Cleveland, O.

Mrs. B. Pine motored to Ticonderoga with friends recently.

Mr. Nielson of Brooklyn spent several days at his home here.

Mrs. Mary Simmons spent Friday afternoon in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sullivan of New York city spent the week-end at their home here.

Mrs. E. Soper and sons of Ulster Park called on Mrs. Mary Simmons Saturday.

Marlborough Residence Destroyed

Marlborough, Sept. 28.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the eight-room house owned and occupied by Frank Colletto on South street early Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Colletto were in New York, where they had gone on Friday. The local firemen were called but were unable to do anything to save the building due to the high wind that was blowing.

If autumn brought us only the chrysanthemums, it would be a season well worth longing for. These lovely flowers are as much a symbol of the season as violets in the spring.

THE MODERN WAY to Keep A Warm Kitchen

The old-fashioned combination range has had its day, and few will regret its passing. No more is it necessary to bring dirty fuels into the kitchen, then spend time cleaning up the dirt that is produced by the stove itself.

The modern housewife heats her kitchen with an up-to-date gas range having built-in gas heating. In winter, as in summer, there is complete freedom from dirty fuels and from fire-building. There is an end too, to the waste and annoyance of over-heating, since gas heat is turned on and off instantly as needed.

As a matter of fact, many local home-makers have already learned that it costs no more to heat the kitchen the easy way, with gas, than it did with old-fashioned methods.

When you buy a new gas range, insist upon one which provides heating as well as modern cooking convenience, using only GAS, the completely clean fuel.

Council Secretary Plans Challenge

Dr. W. T. Clemens

In connection with the annual convention of the State Council of Churches and Religious Education being held in Kingston, October 2, a challenge for the year ahead will be given by Dr. W. T. Clemens, general secretary of the state council. Dr. Clemens is providing an aggressive leadership of the cooperative work of the Protestant churches of New York state in the development of the program of the state council. He came to this work two years ago after eight years as associate general secretary of the Greater New York Federation of Churches. He was formerly professor of sociology at Syracuse university.

MODENA

Modena, Sept. 29.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Modena Methodist Church met Thursday afternoon at Mrs. Anna Miller's home, when those in attendance were the Rev. and Mrs. Philip Solbjor, Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Mrs. Emory Conklin, Mrs. Ira Hyatt, Mrs. Rufus Jenkins, Mrs. Cornelia Taylor, Mrs. Hallock Harris, Mrs. George Dushinberre, Miss Emma Ward, Mrs. Miller and guest, Miss LeFevre. The next meeting will be held at the Modena Methodist Parsonage, on Thursday afternoon, November 5, when the annual election of officers will be made. Final plans for the setting of the clambake to the members of the Daughters of the League, Thursday evening, October 1, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall was made.

Local students of grade and high schools enjoyed a brief vacation, when teachers attended conference Friday. An Indian "Harvest" festival was held in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, Friday evening. The hall was appropriately decorated with autumn leaves and colors, a fitting background for the Indian wigwam, and also the Indian costumes worn by those attending. A war dance was executed and community singing enjoyed.

Mrs. George Mathison and mother, Mrs. William Kaiser, of New Paltz, attended a wedding in Newburgh recently.

Mrs. Lester Wager and son, Lester, accompanied by Mrs. Dale Sutherland and daughter, Betty, of New Paltz, spent Friday with their mother, Mrs. Kate Denton, who has been confined to her home in Kingston with illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lawson and family of Walkkill were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard O'Connell.

Ransel Wager was a caller in Ellenville and Pine Bush Saturday.

Miss Marguerite Smith was a caller in Highland Friday.

Miss Anna Bergh of Kingston was a guest of Mrs. Cornelia Taylor and Mrs. Myron Shultis, during the week-end.

Rufus Jenkins is ill, at his home here.

Miss Jessie DuBois visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas DuBois, recently.

Mrs. Ransel Wager spent Friday with Mrs. Vernard Wager and family in Hattickill.

Mrs. Mabel Yeager of Highland, formerly of Modena, was in town Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Shultis entertained relatives from Kingston and Highland Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Helen Conklin was appointed chaplain of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sullivan-Shafer Post, American Legion, at a recent meeting.

Democratic N. Y. State Convention—WEAF-NBC 9, Pres. Roosevelt (also WOR-NBS). Progressive—WABC-CBS 10:30, "Roosevelt Progress," Maj. Geo. L. Berry.

Democratic—WABC-CBS 10:45, "Happy Days" Program.

WEDNESDAY: Republican—WEAF-NBC 4:30 p. m., Landon Radio Clubs.

New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—Under the schedule as now prepared, Thursday night on the networks is to furnish the first high spot of the 1936 political campaign via radio. Without a break there will be an hour and 45 minutes of discussion of the issues. Col. Frank Knox starts off at 8:30 for a half-hour on WJZ-NBC, to be followed at 9 on WEAF-NBC and WABC-CBS for another half-hour by President Roosevelt. At Smith takes up the closing period on WJZ-NBC from 9:30 to 10:15. In addition, Norman Thomas has been allotted 15 minutes on WABC-CBS at 10:45. Also there are the regular political features.

Because of the President's talk Major Bowes and his amateurs are reducing their time to the 30 minutes at 9:30 on CBS, which places them on the air opposite Al Smith's talk. Showboat, normally heard on WEAF-NBC at 9, has been cancelled for this week.

Feinberg's Address to G.O.P. State Convention

Following is the address of Senator Benjamin F. Feinberg, permanent chairman of the Republican State Convention, in Albany today:

Mr. Littleton, State Chairman Eaton, Distinguished Guests, Delegates and Alternates to the Republican State Convention, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am grateful to you for the honor which you have conferred upon me. This is a proud moment in my life. This happiness, however, brings with it a keen realization that the duly elected delegates and alternates to this history making convention of the Republican party are confronted with grave responsibilities and unlimited opportunities.

Its responsibilities include the naming of candidates for state office, and the adoption of a party platform which will be an understanding and thoroughly humane document.

Its opportunities include the restoration of truly American principles of government to the great State of New York, and the severance of Washington control from the affairs of the people of this state.

Its opportunities further include taking necessary steps leading to the wholehearted support of the national Republican ticket by the people of this state, irrespective of their political beliefs.

Therefore, this convention is something more than a political assemblage. It is, as I see it, dedicated to striking a definite and fatal blow at the modern despotism which calls itself the New Deal.

It is dedicated to halt further destruction of American ideals and institutions by removing from power an incipient dictatorship in state and nation.

It is dedicated to prevent further attacks on representative government in this state and nation by New Deal political sharpshooters who have reversed the Jeffersonian maxim "That government is best which governs least" into "That government is best which governs most."

It is dedicated to the restoration of sane and orderly government to our people; to the reduction of taxes and the halting of reckless spending.

In brief, it is dedicated to the perpetuation of our American ideals; to the American plan of government, and to striking free the shackles of regimentation and individual restriction which the New Deal has sought to clamp upon us.

I know something about the type of foreign government which the New Deal is initiating in our country today. So deeply do I feel this crisis in our national life that I trust you will excuse a personal reference. My parents came here from Europe as poor immigrants—came here to escape the iron hand of misused authority; came here to flee persecution, to enjoy social and religious freedom and to live their lives in their own way in this land of opportunity and freedom.

I, as one of humble birth—as one who has had to fight and fight hard for whatever I have been able to make of myself, want our institutions preserved, the freedom of opportunity and action continued, so that others who follow the hard road that I pursued may have their fair chance to make their way in this country which I love.

I, for one, want my children, and you want your children, to have their chance at life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. I am willing that those who may follow me will be forced to mark time to the strains of New Deal marches or New Deal songs.

Recent Roosevelt Philosophy
I, for one, resent the Rooseveltian philosophy that all those who will not bow low at the New Deal shrine represent what he terms "Princes of Privilege," and are representatives of "Dollar Dynasties."

I, for one, believe in the reasonable industrial practice that if an executive you hire to run your business affairs proves himself incompetent and unworthy of your confidence, he should be discharged.

As an administrator of the affairs of the people of this country the present chief executive has proved himself incapable. He has forfeited the confidence of the people as a whole, and of the party which, in 1932, made possible his nomination to the high office to which he was elected.

Because he has failed to do what he promised to do; because he turned his back on his party's platform; and because he has saddled the people of this country with a huge national debt, the most colossal of all time—a debt which must be paid off not only by those of our generation, but also by generations yet unborn—Franklin D. Roosevelt should not be returned by the people of these United States to the high office he now holds.

On the same premise, I say that Governor Lehman should also be repudiated because he, too, broke his promises to the people of the state of New York. He surrendered his independence; he surrendered his rights as a governor—and instead of acting in the interest of the people of the state—and governing accordingly, he followed instructions from Washington and made New York state a guinea pig for the New Deal.

Let me go back to September 8, 1932, when Governor Lehman was lieutenant-governor and made an address at Syracuse, New York. Here is what he said:

"We must cut waste of every kind. We must eliminate luxuries. Public officials must take the lead, and any public official who is willing or ready to waste tax dollars of the taxpayers' money should be and will be driven out of office."

The record shows that: Governor Lehman has wanted the taxpayers' money. He has taken over the Roosevelt mantle of "the great spender." I am confident that the voters of this state on Election Day next will apply the governor's own statement to his own record. In addition to this he has surrendered state's rights. He has made our state capital a White House annex. He has repeatedly attempted to bring about far-reaching changes in the constitution of the state. He has set up perpetual smoke screens to disguise the real issues. He has greatly increased the number of state employees, an increase not recruited from available state civil service lists, but from the patronage lists of New Deal followers in the sixty-two counties.

Roosevelt and Lehman

It is impossible to discuss the impending state election without simultaneously discussing the national election. I say this because the New Deal in Washington and in this state are one and the same. And I further say it because:

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman have disregarded the scientific relationship between deficit and credit, between budget balance and budget collapse.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman have pursued policies of imposing ever-increasing tax burdens upon the people, and have made absolutely no effort to bring economy in government to their respective administrations.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman have been motivated by the doctrine of political expediency whenever and wherever their election to public office was involved. And this irrespective of the needs of the people, or the consequence of their actions to the people.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman have consistently sought to substitute propaganda for facts; deficits for deeds, administrative chaos for order; class appeals for government in the public interest; patronage for the properties and bombast for needed action.

Mr. Roosevelt and Governor Lehman have been administrative Siamese Twins. They have stressed falacy and fantasy in their scheme of things—and they have substituted lofty rhetoric for logical administrative reason.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman have gone far beyond their executive powers and have usurped the powers of the legislature. In addition, Mr. Roosevelt has attempted to usurp the powers of the judiciary.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman have gone far beyond the powers and dignity of their high offices in permitting their spokesmen to abuse and vilify members of Congress and members of the state legislature, who, as duly elected representatives of the people, have voted as their consciences dictated and as their constituents would have them vote instead of voting as Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman demanded.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman were former proteges of Governor Alfred E. Smith and both "took a walk" away from "Al" long before he "took a walk" from the new political party they built up at the expense of the Jeffersonian Democrats of the state of New York.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Lehman are so politically interwoven that the political fabric of one represents the governmental wool-gathering of the other.

When Mr. Roosevelt became President in March, 1933, there were approximately eleven million unemployed people in this country. He has accomplished nothing in relieving the situation. There still are eleven million people unemployed.

I think it can be said in all fairness that no nation has ever witnessed such wasteful and extravagant expenditure of public funds as has been made in this country during the past few years. I do not refer to, nor do I wish to be understood as criticizing, the relief of distress.

was and always will be necessary and humane to provide food and shelter for the impoverished unemployed with their dependents; nor do I refer to needed improvements of sound and permanent value, but all the people on useless or temporary projects used as vehicles for dispensing political patronage to a favored few, the refusal or failure of those in authority to consider the day of reckoning has caused the people of this country to be fearful of the future financial stability of the nation. It has been estimated that 40 per cent of the income of every individual is paid back to the state or nation in taxes—not only real and personal property taxes but income taxes, transfer taxes, gift taxes, sales taxes, process taxes, gasoline taxes, production taxes, franchise taxes, duties on imports and exports, license fees of all kinds, as well as an inconceivable number of other hidden taxes—and yet this tremendous burden upon the people is still insufficient to carry the load imposed by the New Deal. More and more taxes—higher and higher taxes—most inevitably result if the "Spenders" are continued in office. No one knows how or when, or if ever, the American people can pay this debt.

The only lasting means for relieving unemployment is the creation of permanent jobs. This can be accomplished only by a revival of industry in this state and nation and the extinction of the fear of oppression which has stifled the industry of this country for the past three and a half years. Hundreds, yes thousands, of factories employing hundreds of thousands of people are ready to start operations as soon as their owners know that the future holds for them something more than a mere "breathing spell."

Agriculture, one of the greatest industries of the nation, has been given a similar picture. Now through the enactment of laws which compelled the destruction of crops and livestock which later were replaced by those imported from foreign countries. The net result of this has been not only to increase the cost of food to our own people but also to deprive them of legitimate income which went instead to the farmers of foreign lands. A fair example of the woes heaped upon the American farmer by the present administration is best illustrated by the so-called Reciprocity Trade Treaty with Canada under the provisions of which the Canadian farmer is allowed to advantageously enter our markets with his products to the detriment of our home producers.

In this state the indifference of

REPUBLICAN KEYNOTER AND PARTY CHAIRMAN

Martin W. Littleton, Nassau County District Attorney and keynoter of the Republican State Convention, left, as he was introduced by State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton, to the delegates in Tenth Infantry Armory, Albany. (Associated Press Photo)

Governor Lehman towards governmental expenditures, taxes and deficits is typical of the basic New Deal philosophy.

On May 20th Governor Lehman announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election, but along came the Philadelphia convention and here again the national administration indicated its control over the executive at Albany. The well planned demonstration by New Deal delegates, consisting principally of New Deal office holders, the people who were and are benefiting from the New Deal spendthrift policies, was too much for the governor to withstand and so again he is to become the standard-bearer of the New Deal forces in this state, solely in the hope that his candidacy may be of aid to his Washington colleagues.

Contrast, if you will, this record of a New Deal governor with that of the Republican members of the 1935 legislature. In the assembly campaign of 1935 these Republican candidates made certain definite pledges. These pledges were renewed at the joint conference of Republican legislators and county chairmen held in Albany on December 18, 1935, and these pledges were lived up to by the Republican members during the past legislative session.

Reviews Pledges
Let me review a few of the Republican pledges made good this year:

The Republican legislators agreed to cooperate with the governor and with the Democratic majority in the senate on all constructive measures which came within the range of constructive and sound governmental principles. These legislators held to their agreement. They cooperated with the governor in every way possible. Instead of cooperation being extended in return, the legislative session of 1935 was transformed into a political arena because Mr. Lehman was told by New Deal spokesmen that he must govern his actions with an eye to the national presidential campaign. Instead of with a view to the needs of New York state and its people.

Our legislative courtesy and co-operation went for naught. "Instead of cooperation, our Republican legislators were subjected to an incessant barrage of the governor's attacks in the press—attacks denouncing our actions and indicting our honesty of purpose. The obstructionist tactics of Governor Lehman and his associates and their desire to build up the tottering New Deal fortifications in this state, cost the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars because of the length of the legislative session and the New Deal's incessant penchant for experimentation. This obstructionism was another chapter in "Lehman's Governmental Follies."

Again, believing that unemployment represented the real measure of the depression, and further believing this important problem had been attacked in an entirely unsatisfactory way, the Republican legislature promised the people and asked for the creation of a joint commission composed of the members of the relief committee of senate and assembly including members of the TERA as ex-officio, for the purpose of conducting an impartial investigation into the causes and administration of unemployment. This in order that the state might ascertain the future needs of its people and the most enlightened method of coping with the unemployment problem.

Did this logical, helpful, necessary investigation take place? It did not. The New Deal did not want spread upon the records the extent of unemployment and the appalling travesty of federal administration of relief. And so it was that the governor failed to give support to this important measure.

The Republican legislature pledged and introduced legislation leading to a resumption of the railroad grade-crossing elimination program as a means of reducing unemployment.

Was this recommendation acceptable to the governor? By no means. He was against it. He was against it because the New Deal gave him a negative answer to his question, "Should we do this?" And, instead of action on this needed program, all that the people of the state received was publicity statements written by the corps of propagandists on the payroll of the New Deal state and national administrations.

The Republican members of the legislature pledged themselves to work for an eight-hour day to employ in state institutions, and introduced enabling legislation immediately after the convening of the legislature on January 1 last.

The governor vetoed this proposal in 1935 on the premise that the state did not have sufficient funds to defray the cost of such an innovation. But, that did not stop him from attempting to claim credit for this Republican measure, after it had passed. He is still claiming the credit. In fact, if you will examine the partial Republican Legislative program adopted by the Joint Conference of the Republican members of the legislature, and Republican county chairmen held in Albany, December 18, 1935, and contrast it with the governor's message to the legislature, read on January 1, 1936, you will find that the governor took subjects and entire passages from our recommendations and appropriated them for himself, striving to give to the people of the state the impression that these measures originated with him. But, to go on, briefly:

The Republican members of the legislature agreed last December to repeal the so-called state NRA law, as enacted in Chapter 781 of the Laws of 1933, and to repeal also all other state legislation passed at the request of the National Recovery Administration for purposes which the Supreme Court had declared unconstitutional, and which had proved unworkable in practice. Again the Republican legislators made good their promise and introduced legislation looking towards the repeal of these laws. In this their efforts were opposed every step of the way by Governor Lehman and his Democratic legislative rubber-stamps.

Made Good Promise

The Republican members of the legislature pledged themselves to county government reform, and made good their promise through the passage of the Fearon county reform bill.

The Republican members of the legislature pledged themselves to economy in government and then, making good their promise, slashed close to $15,000,000 from the governor's huge budget, one of the largest in the history of the state.

The Republican members of the legislature pledged themselves to reductions in the emergency gasoline taxes, and, during the session, slashed one per cent per gallon from these taxes.

The Republican members of the legislature introduced and urged the passage of a bill to provide free milk to undernourished and needy children. This bill not only would have provided necessary relief for indigent families but also would have helped materially the milk producers of the state. No bill in the legislature was more strenuously opposed by the New Deal representatives and it did not pass.

The Republican members of the legislature pledged themselves to liberalize the relief provisions of the State Old Age Pension Law, and they made good this promise.

Much has been said by the governor about his eight-point program for social security as an issue in this campaign, although he knows full well that the eight-point social security program he advocated, contained provisions that were unnecessary. I say this because seven of the eight points involved needed no additional legislation. The high standards of our existing social welfare laws already qualified the state to receive the necessary federal aid for five of the points in his program. The activities covered by the remaining two points are already being carried on by the state of New York and its sub-divisions. The final and eighth point was provided for in the Wadsworth Old Age Assistance Bill, passed by both branches of the state legislature and enacted into law by the governor's signature.

There can be no question but that the Republican position on social security was both practical and humane, for it did not hold forth hopes which would prove to be fleeing shadows never to be realized.

The state of New York is recognized as one of the most progressive states of the Union in providing social welfare and security legislation and benefits for its citizens. Among the humanitarian measures, either sponsored by Republican legislators or passed when one or both houses of the legislature were under Republican control, are the following: Old Age Pension Act and reduction of eligible age to 65; pensions for the blind; care for crippled children; public health services; child welfare services; unemployment relief law; Workmen's Compensation Act; Reorganization of the Social Welfare Department.

The Republican members of the legislature pledged themselves to continue efforts to strengthen laws for the prevention of crime, as they had done in 1935, when some 18 anti-crime measures died in Democratic controlled committees, because Governor Lehman failed to raise his voice in support of the bills, although their passage was urged by the Democratic attorney general of the state.

This year, realizing that the subject of anti-crime legislation was in the forefront of the people's consciousness, Governor Lehman loudly proclaimed his indignation over the failure of some of his bills to pass, even though police officials, prosecutors and bar associations of the state, publicly declared that a number of the measures were illegal, unconstitutional and in violation of the rights of citizens.

I would run the risk of tiring you were I to recite in complete detail the splendid story of how the Republican members of the legislature made good their campaign promises and their legislative pledges.

By the same token I would presume further on your patience were I to consume time in reciting Governor Lehman's frantic efforts to block needed legislation suggested by Republican legislators. As a matter of fact I do not think I need to enlarge upon the few highlights already given you. You know the story of Lehman obstructionism and of New Deal legislative tactics.

America at the Crossroads

America is at the crossroads. Today this country is facing conditions no less fateful than those which it confronted in pre-Civil War days. Again "We are testing whether that nation or any nation so dedicated can long endure." The most sacred principles, for the preservation of which this country was founded and upon which it has survived, are imperiled. In a few short weeks the American people must decide whether this government shall continue to be one "of the people, by the people and for the people," or one of unrestricted dictatorship. They must decide whether these United States shall be governed by orderly processes of law as determined by the people or by hysteria, revolutionary impulses and personal whim. The problem must be solved by the application of sound and practical methods which have stood the test of time rather than by the hallucinations of fanciful and socialistic theorists.

The Republican party, with its proud record of thoughtful and progressive leadership—of effective accomplishment—with its foundation upon the solid rock of constitutional government rather than upon the shifting sands of dictatorship, is the hope of American democracy. The Republican party holds aloft the torch of confidence attracting all true Americans and illuminating their pathway toward economic recovery, security, prosperity and happiness.

In 1854 the Republican party was born in a resolution expressed in part in the following words:

"Resolved, That, postponing and suspending all differences with regard to political economy or administrative policy, in view of the imminent danger that Kansas and Nebraska will be grasped by slavery, and a thousand miles to slave soil be thus interposed between the free states of the Atlantic and those of the Pacific, we will act cordially and faithfully in unison to avert and repel this gigantic wrong and shame."

"Resolved, That in view of the necessity of battling for the first principles of Republican government, and against the schemes of an aristocracy, the most revolting and oppressive with which the earth was ever cursed or man debased, we will cooperate and be known as 'Republicans' until the contest be terminated."

Thus it is seen that the determined pioneers and patriots of 1854 who so firmly laid the foundation of the Republican Party had one great object in view—to check the extension of slavery—in other words, it was born as the exponent of liberty.

To me it seems an act of Providence that Kansas, one of the states which the Republican party was organized to save, should now pay its debt of gratitude to the Republic by giving us a man to meet this national crisis—a man whose whole life exemplifies these principles of liberty, union and justice, Alfred M. Landon.

We are about to name our own candidates on the state ticket. I am confident that we will name men and women who will appeal to the people of the entire state, who are representative of the people of this great Empire State and who will work for the preservation of our liberties and opportunities.

Let Divine Providence be with us in our selection of these candidates—

—let the Ruler of the Universe be with us in the drafting of our platform—and let Him be with us in the coming campaign in order that our country and our people shall live and prosper and that real recovery shall come once more to our land—the land we love and cherish.

New low mortality records for tuberculosis and puerperal conditions among the 17,000,000 industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan Insurance Company are assured for 1936, according to statisticians of the company, who also announce a marked decline in suicides as one of the most favorable health developments to date, and foresee the possibility of a new minimum homicide rate being reached by the end of the year.

NAUTICAL MUSICAL AT CLINTON AVENUE CHURCH

"Aboard the S. S. Happiness" is the title of a nautical production to be given by the choir of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church Wednesday evening, October 7. The story for this entertainment has been written by Vernon Miller with the assistance of Mrs. Raymond Hignall, director of music of the church.
Epworth Hall will be gaily decorated for this occasion through the courtesy of the Greenwald Travel Service who is cooperating in obtaining scenery and effects to produce a nautical atmosphere. The stage will reveal the deck of the "S. S. Happiness" where the action for the entertainment will take place.
"Captain John Mac Pherson" will act as master of ceremonies and will head a cast of more than 30 people of the church. A chorus of 20 voices will add much to the pleasure of the evening.
The guest of honor for the evening will be "Her Majesty, Queen Marie" of that mystic country of "Transylvania." The concert will be in her honor.
One of the features of the evening will be a ship model display which may be viewed before and after the performance. This display will consist of over 30 models made by such well known model builders as Mark Pennington, Ray Nickerson and others.
The entire proceeds of this entertainment will be used for the music fund of the church. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the choir or the church board.

FLOOD SWEEPS WACO, TEX., 2,000 HOMELESS

Fast-rising waters of the Brazos river broke through a levee near Waco, Tex., and inundated many sections of the city, making 2,000 homeless. Martial law was declared and heavy rains continued to fall. (Associated Press Photo)

WINTER PAYS AN EARLY VISIT

Frigid weather in Rocky Mountain states brought a blustery hint of winter to Denver, Colo., where snow burdened green trees and shrubbery in a premature visit. As most crops were harvested, there was little damage. This view shows a municipal park with the city and county house in the background. (Associated Press Photo)

FOREST FIRES KILL 7 ON COAST

About 100 forest fires were reported in California and Oregon, with at least seven persons killed and several Oregon towns endangered or destroyed. This view shows flames eating through a stand of tall timber in the Big Basin region of Santa Cruz county, Calif. (Associated Press Photo)

Youth Arrested on Forgery Charge

Dominic Iacabellis, 19, Arrested at Glen Cove, L. I., Charged With Issuing Bad Check—Other Police Court Cases.

Dominic Iacabellis, 19, was arrested at Glen Cove, L. I., on Monday on a warrant sworn out by Harry Hynes of this city charging the youth with second degree forgery in uttering a bad check for $55. Officers Soper and Sammons went to Long Island yesterday and returned with the young man.

This morning Iacabellis was arraigned before Judge Walter H. Gill, in police court. He was represented by Attorney Arthur C. Connelly, who informed the court that he was representing Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, the youth's attorney. Mr. Conway, he said, was in Albany today helping to nominate the next governor of the state, and for that reason Mr. Connelly suggested that an adjournment be taken. The hearing was adjourned to October 12, and Judge Gill fixed bail at $500.

Sergeant James V. Simpson of the police department informed Judge Gill that there were four other bad checks reported to the department, but that warrants had not been obtained as yet. According to the police the youth is accused of forging his father's name to the checks.

The Stop Sign Passers Club became active overnight and this morning three new members became affiliated with the club by paying fines of $3 each. The three arrested for failing to observe the stop signs were Albert E. Maspons of St. James street, Stephen D. Sahler of Lake Katrine and Benson V. Miller of Linderman avenue.

Charles Martin of Pine Hill was arrested on two charges yesterday, one for failing to produce an operator's license on demand of the officer, and the other of operating a truck with inadequate brakes. The hearing was set down for Wednesday morning.

RESTAURANT AND HOTEL OWNERS MEET TONIGHT

A meeting of the owners of liquor licensed hotels and restaurants of Ulster county will be held tonight in the supervisors rooms at the county court house.

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the proposed changes in the liquor laws and set up a unit to become part of the above association.

A state convention is being planned for New York city in October. It will be the first such gathering of liquor dealers since 1918. It is hoped at this meeting that delegates will be elected to represent Ulster county.

Share in Estate Of Theodore Cole

New York, Sept. 28.—(Special)—Mrs. Eliza Molneaux, of 274 Clinton avenue, and George D. Morry, Theodore C. and Helen Wood of 322 Broadway, and Abbey McCrory of 34 West O'Reilly street, Kingston, are listed as legatees in the will of the late Theodore S. Cole, filed for probate today in surrogate's court in Brooklyn.

At the expiration of a life estate to the widow, Mrs. Jennie F. Cole of Brooklyn, two-sevenths of the residue will pass to Mrs. Molneaux, a sister of the testator. The others, who are nephews and nieces, will receive a seventh each at Mrs. Cole's death.
Mr. Cole, who lived at 187 Sterling Place Brooklyn, died September 18. His estate was declared "more than $,000 head and more than $2,000 personal property." A bequest of $200 was set aside for upkeep of the Cole burial plot in the Pine Hill Cemetery.

To Inherit West Hurley Property

New York, Sept. 28.—(Special)—Property in West Hurley owned by the late Frank Collier will go to his friend, Margaret O'Brien, of Brooklyn. It was learned here today when the will was filed for probate in surrogate's court. The property consists of a large house on the hill and land known as Elys Park, Glenford, West Hurley. Its value is not stated.

Four sons are left the remainder of the estate, in approximately equal shares. They divide stock in Frank Collier, Inc., and the residuary. The daughters receive nothing as they are "already provided for."

Mr. Collier died in New York on September 12. His estate is merely described as "more than $10,000."

When Mrs. Allen, the vice-president, was made president owing to Mrs. C. N. Schommaker, the president, leaving town. This club is studying "World Affairs of Today." The roll call was "Wit and Humor and Current Events." Mrs. Eiding read Mrs. Walker's admirably presented paper on "The Constitution." The next meeting will be with Mrs. G. N. Wood. At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.
